It is not an uncommon thing for many of the papers and especially the dailies, to publish full accounts of the hangings that occasionally take place in various parts of the country. This is a very poor sort of literature to place before the public; and especially in reach of the young, as it tends to foster a morbid craving to read of the horrible and revel in records of all those exciting and unnatural deeds which are often committed by desperate and bad people. We try to avoid such descriptions; but a hanging took place recently at New Madrid, Miss, at which the culprit made a brief speech, concluding in the following warning words, which embody a warning to which all should take heed. On account of this warning we publish it.

"To men, and particularly to young men and boys, I would say a few farewell words. Look at me. I am on the scaffold about to be launched into the other world. What brought me to this? Let me tell you, and let these words ring forever in your ears. It was whisky and the carrying of firearms. Whisky and pistols have ruined me. If you do not want them to ruin you, and if you do not want to be imprisoned and in the end brought to the scaffold, don't drink liquor, don't carry fire arms. When I am gone, gentlemen, think not hard of me; every person that has injured me I forgive from my heart, and I hope and pray that all whom I have injured may forgive me. Boys, don't keep bad company. I bid farewell to everybody."

Considerable discussion and excitement has taken place in congress recently on account of the talked of annexation of St. Domingo. The president is said to favor it, but a portion of the senate, at the head of which is Mr. Sumner, are opposed. The democracy which used to be for annexing til creation, are opposed to this measure.

NEBRASKA LETTER.

HEBRON, JEFFERSON, CO., NEB. DEC. 26th, 1870.

MR. EDITOR:—In my last letter I promised to give you an account of a buffalo hunt. To the young mind of eastern states the phrase, Buffalo Hunt, has a wonderful charm; causing his bosom to heave as visions of beautiful prairies, gay scenery, mettled steeds, wild Indians, elk, antelope, deer and buffalo flit through his ardent brain. O, for a gallop over the plains, rifle in hand, slaughtering the huge inhabitants found there! is the exclamation of the youthful reader and admirer of Mr. Beadle's style of literature. "All is not gold that glitters." I, too, had my boyhood dreams of this most celebrated of American sports; the bright vision which had grown dim by time, was rudely dispelled by actual experience. True, my experience came during the hard, chilly blasts, but they were far preferable to the scorching rays of a summer sun.

On the 6th inst., two teams accompanied by six men left Hebron, for the purpose of getting a supply of winter meat. Your correspondent was one of the six. Our outfit was as follows: ten day's supply of bread for ourselves, and grain for our stock, two Winchester, one Sharpe, two Spencer rifles, and a shot gun, seven hundred rounds of amunition, and a good supply of blankets. The rule was everybody to walk, but the drivers. With many wishes for our success by divers meat hungry families, we started, making twenty-five miles a day. Our plan of procedure was as follows: hunters to strike out on the flanks and gobble up any rabbit or goose astray.

For three days we followed the windings of the Little Blue; the Indians were several days ahead of us, and game they did not kill they drove from the route. Nothing but rabbit and chicken awarded our labors: it was stewed chicken for breakfast, chicken stewed for dinner, and both for supper. "These things are munotinous," growls one of the crowd, disconsolately chewing the breast of a half-boiled bird. "Second the motion," exclaims another. "What'll we do?" says a third. "Leave this blasted Injun trail,' answers he of the chicken breast. "Have to leave the river then," says number three. "That's the ides," says number one. After due discussion it is decided to leave the trail and push across the plains for some other stream. And across we go. The Indians have burned the grass, as far as the eye can see is nothing but burnt stubble. As I trudge along seeking in vain for some relief to this dreadful monotony, Byron's blankness flits through my mind. "Hang it!" exclaims an irreverent youth, "I'd give my first buffalo for a sight of some timber." Some one else remarked about counting chickens before they are hatched. On we go striving to keep warm and pay no attention to the keen north wind. Night comes, a ravine is found, some buffalo chips and dry brush are collected, a fire is made, and foot weary we gather round and talk disconsolately of our prospects; we have traveled all day and found no water. Our beds are made on the ground, and we soon seek oblivion in sleep, to dream of the old oaken bucket or bubling springs. With early morn comes our breakfast of dry bread, and the renewal of our journey. Every draw or ravine is duly inspected but no water. The day wears on, and afternoon is fast merging into evening. Weary and dispirited we follow the teams, our throats parched; thirty six hours facing keen winds, without one drop of water. The romance of buffalo hunting has flew for ever; we are now standing face to face with the reality. Ahead of us is a draw, into it plunge a couple of men who soon return gesticulating violently, "What's up!" shouted a teamster. "Water," bellows the other, 'bring an axe." Seizing an axe off we rush, a few sharp blows and we are all down flat, drinking the foul water that has been there for months, camp kettles and pails are filled, and the stock is watered.

Sometimes our only fire is one of buffalo chips; night overtakes us on the open prairie and there we camp, cold, hungry and tired.

The fourth night we came to grass. An object is seen far down the draw; after much speculation it is pronounced to be an elk. The decree having gone forth that his elkship should grace our frying pans with sundry steaks, four hunters started to get to the windward while the teamsters took the teams to a suitable place for an encampment, and busied themselves making fire enough to cook a dozen elk. After an absence of two hours, the valiant hunters returned, elkless, driving before them a handsome Indian pony; for form, muscle, and general appearance, he was fit to grace the stables of royalty; but the poor fellow was lame. He had been wounded in a front leg by a rifle bullet, and turned loose to die. Not caring to shuffle off his mortal coil just at that time, he concluded to recover, and at the time we found him, had almost achieved his object. Too lame to use his fore legs to advantage, he had during the many months of his lameness acquired great dexterity in using his hind ones, no doubt, to repel the too familiar advances of the wolves. Here was a prize, nice to look at, but dangerous to handle. In vain did we try to approach him; his fore legs were a pivot on which his hind ones seemed to revolve in all directions at once: after several ineffectual attempts, corn was tried; like many a man, he fell a victim to his appetite, and once more became subservient to man, when once haltered he became perfectly docile.

One scout put the camp in great excitement by declaring he had seen buffaloes. Early next morning we were astir, and on the lookout for buffalo; nor had we long to look ere we saw a large herd; all was excitement, and two of the boys gave chase on foot, and ran the herd for a half day before they came to their senses. After this violent outbreak had subsided, a plan was directed by the only old hunter in the party. A heard was seen two miles away, the four hunters were to get in a draw to the windward, and thus steal on the unwary game. After an hour's maneuvering, they got within range; then came the orders: G., you take the one on the right; T., there is your meat stretching himself; and so on, and at last came the words, "Are you ready?" "Yes," was the answer. "Then fire low." No sooner said than done; four bullets speeded for four hearts, and a score of huge, shaggy animals galloped awkwardly away. "Load and fire," was the next order, and our guns being eighteen and seven shooters, we poured a number of leaden messengers into the flying mass. Soon one huge beast was seen to stop and lay down, and then another; several more badly wounded were marked, and away we started after another drove a mile or so away. The same mode was gone through with nearly the same result.

Hunting was now given up for the more disagreeable occupation of dressing the game. Thermometer at zero and no fire. The work must be done immediately, and do it we did; nearly freezing during the operation.

The next day a violent snow storm set in and kept us camp bound. Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday we hunted and killed, until our loads were made up. We took no meat but the quarters with bones cut out, and the tenderloins. Friday we started homeward, with nothing but parched corn and dried buffalo to eat. Another storm broke over us, the hunters lost the wagon, and wandered all day amid the driving snow, trying in vain to find the teams. To say we were frightened is but a faint explanation of our feelings; thoughts of perishing from cold and fatigue when the chances are good, are not very cheering to lost people. In the afternoon we found our teams and started for some timber a few miles off, and to our chagrin found we were just a half a mile from the previous night's camping ground. We had traveled all day in a circle! Some nights we would have to travel after dark trying to make certain peices of timber. The snow on the ground made hard walking, keeping our boots continually wet and frozen. When we did strike a camping place we would have to sleep on the snow. No matter how foot sore and weary we were we could not ride, we ran too much danger of freezing, the only way we could keep warm was by constant motion.

We were gone fifteen days, and during that time walked over three hundred miles. I would like to give a full description of the country I passed through, but I have taken too much space already. The course we took was northwest beyond Ft. Kearney, and toward the Platt. During the trip we never saw an Indian, and when we struck their trails, would leave them immediately.

With heavily laden wagons we started homeward; the excitement of hunting having all subsided, the great desire was to get home. Each day seemed an age, and the tired beasts made but slow headway. At last after much suffering we arrived at our homes, but poorly paid for our severe labor.

Very Respectfully,
FRANK B. TANNER.

"Men fear death as children fear to go into the dark," says Lord Bacon. "Dusty death." "The bourne from whence no traveler returns," says Shakspeare. Almost all writers invest death with somewhat of terror. "Terrible as death," is a familiar quotation. But to return to Lord Bacon's remark. Why do men fear death? Because, like children with the darkness, they are too often educated to associate death with uncertainty and gloom and dread. They know nothing of the beyond, and death seems to come up like a black wall between them and happiness. They can laugh at life; spin along the rosy hours of health; even pass through severe sickness, with hope as a beacon, but when death comes home to them in the loss of a relative or friend, they know not what to do. It is fortunate the terrible dread wears off. It is well for the poor man that his soul has its own process of pouring the waters of a temporary oblivion over his thoughts and bringing him back to cheerfulness again. Else would the song of life be but a monotonous wailing.

But what a change the advent of Spiritualism in its modern shape has given to all this! Now the king of terrors has resigned his crown and become the subject. Fear is merged into love, and to the mortal who has a weary pilgrimage and whose knowledge of the better world has been growing through constant communion with its inhabitants, death comes as a messenger of glad tidings; as a brother to conduct the yearning soul to supreme delights. 'There is no death,' cries the uprising soul. 'The cold and cruel grave I once looked on as a sepulcher of all my hopes, I find is but a receptacle for waste material. I leave in it only a worn out body.'

Grand awakening! when mortals realize this truth. How the cross they have been wearing becomes covered with flowers! Though the burden be heavy the heart is light, for death has lost its terrors, the grave its coldness, and knowledge whispers, for these trials and journeyings in stony places, behold! just over the river, there is compensation."—LOUDON ENGLE in Banner of Light.

JIM BLUDSO,

OF THE PRAIRIE BELLE.

Wall, no! I can't tell what he lives,
Because he dont live, you see;
Leastways, he's got out of the habit
Of livin' like you and me.
What have you been for the last three year
That you han't heard folks tell
How Jimmy Bludso passed in his checks,
The night of the Prairie Belle?

He war'n't no saint—them engineers
Is all pretty much alike—
One wife in Natchez-under-the-Hill,
And another one here, in Pike;
A keerless man in his talk, was Jim,
And an awful man in a row—
But he never hankered, and he never lied,
I reckon he never knowed how.

And this was all the religion he had,
To treat his enjine well;
Never be passed on the river;
To mind the pilot's bell;
And if ever the Prairie Belle took fire—
A thousand times he swore,
He'd hold her nozzle agin the bank
Till the last soul got ashore.

All boats has their day on the Mississip,
And her day come at last—
The Movastar was a better boat,
But the Belle she would n't be passed.
And so she come tearin' along that night—
The oldest craft on the line,
With a nigger squat on her safety valve,
In her furnace crammed rosin and pine.

The fire burst out as she cleared the bar,
And burnt a hole in the night,
And quick as a flash, she turned and made
For that willer bank on the right.
There was runnin' and cursing, but Jim yelled out,
Over all the infernal roar,
"I'll hold her nozzle agin the bank
Till the last galoot's ashore."

Through the hot, black breath of the burnin boat,
Jim Bludso's voice was heard,
And they all had trust in his cussedness,
And knowed he would keep his word.
And, sure's you're born, they all got off
Afore the smoke stacks fell—
And Bludso's ghost went up alone
In the smoke of the Prairie Belle.

He were n't no saint—but at jedgment
I'd run my chance with Jim,
'Longside of some pious gentlemen
That would n't shook hands with him.
He seen his duty, a dead sure thing—
And went for it thar and then;
And Christ aint a goin' to be too hard
On a man that died for men. J. H.

BREAD FROM WHOLE WHEAT

The proposed process ignores mills, mill-stones, and millers; which means simply that the bread is to be made from unground wheat. There is not so much surplus material or indigestible matter in wheat as people generally supposed, judging, as they do, by the apparently large proportion of bran discarded in making flour. In point of fact, not 5 per cent of a grain of wheat need or should be wasted; whereas, in the most cases, only about 75 per cent., or 80 at the farthest, of the nutritious portion of the grain is utilized in producing flour. Thus, there is an actual loss on our part of from 15 to 20 per cent of the aliment naturally provided for us. That all this is sacrificed to apperances, merely that the flour should be of dazzling whiteness, is clear from the circumstance that even these discarded particles of bran and other coatings of the kernel are not only esteemed as fattening food for cattle, but are made into bread which is equally healthful, economical, and palatable.

The making of bread by this new system is a threefold process, viz.: Washing the wheat, fermentation, and the final mixing and flavoring. The wheat is put in a vessel, covered with water, and stirred until the lighter grains and extraneous partacles are either disolved or left floating on the surface. The mass is then freed from the water and put into a cylinder, like a nutmeg grater, whose revolutions remove the outer skin of the grain. This is all that is really necessary to remove. Next the grain thus cleaned is immersed in twice its own weight of water, heated to 75 degrees, to which has been added one part half dry yeast and five or six ounces of glucose to 200 parts of water. A day's exposure to this bath secures the necessary degree of absorption and fermentation, and the color will also have been extracted from the exterior surface of the grain. The water being then removed, the wheat will not be far from white in color. Next, the stiffened mass is put through rollers which mash it into a glutinous pulp, and mix regularly through the whole bulk all the remaining particles of skin or bran. The dough, for such it now is, is then put into a trough, flavoring with salt which has been dissolved, and given an opportunity to absorb more water if necessary and then thoroughly kneaded by hand. Nothing now is needed but to treat it just as flour dough is treated, and when sufficiently light hand it over to the oven.

WHAT THE BLIND HAVE DONE

A newspaper writer sums up the great works accomplished by blind men. He says:

The long list of the names of the blind who have been eminent in the various branches of learning from the time of Diodatus, who lived 50 years before the Christian era, to the present time, has no parallel in, either of the other three classes named. The following are some of those to whom I refer:

Diodatus, of Asia Minor, celebrated for his learning in philosophy, geometry and music.

Eusebius, also of Asia, lived from 315 to 340 of the Christian age; became blind at 5 year of age, died at 25. And yet, during so short a lifetime, this blind man by his theological writings has come to us and will go down to posterity as one of the fathers of Christianity.

Henry, the minstrel of Scotland; author of poetic life of Wallace; born blind in 1361.

Margaret, of Ravenna, born in 1305, blind at three months; celebrated for her writings on theology and morals.

Hermann Torrentine, of Switzerland, born in 1540, author of history and poetical history.

Nicholas Sanderson, of Yorkshire, England, born 1682, learned in mathematics, astronomy, and wrote a book on algebra.

Thomas Blacklock, D. D., of Scotland, born in 1721, blind at six months, celebrated for his learning in poetry, divinity and music.

Francais Huser, of Geneva, Switzerland, born in 1750, wrote on natural science, bees and ants, and on education.

John Milton, born in 1608, in London, author of Paradise Lost.

John Metcalf, born in England, 1717, road surveyor and contractor.

John Gough, born in 1757, in England, blind at three years, wrote on botany, natural philosophy, etc.

David Macbeath, born in Scotland, in 1796, learned in mathematics and music, and inventor of the string alphabet for the blind.

M. Focault, born in Paris in 1797, invented a writing apparatus for the blind.

M. Kine of Prussia, born, blind, was director of an institution for the blind, and wrote on the education of the blind.

Alexander Rodenback, of Belgium, born in 1786, member of the Belgian Congress, and wrote several works on the blind, and the deaf mute.

W. H. Churchman, formerly superintendent of the Institution for the blind at Indianapolis, Ind, and author of architectural designs and reports of the institution. The writer of this once had occasion to correspond with him, and received much finer specimens of autograph penmanship from him than was sent in return.

Rev. W. H. Milburn, now in New York; father and brothers reside in Illinois, celebrated preacher and lecturer.

INDIA-RUBBER.

Considering the many uses to which India-rubber is now applied one of the most important being its recognized superiority over gutta-percha for deep sea telegraphs, and remembering the fears entertained some time back of the probability of the decrease in the supply, owing to the exhaustion of the forests consequent upon the immense demand, it is gratifying to learn that the quantity of rubber exported from Para during the past year exceeded that of the previous year by 22,731 arrobes (an arrobe is equal to about twenty five and one half pounds), and by £24-1,250 in market value. It is true that the more accessible rubber districts are becoming exhausted, and give a smaller yield than in former years, but the rubber-bearing country is so incompletely explored, that the newly discovered sources will, no doubt, more than make up any deficiency arising from exhausting of the old. It is difficult, however, to obtain accurate or reliable information from those engaged in the collecting of the rubber. The continued demand for rubber, which is collected with comparatively little labor, and requires but little skill and experience, absorbs all the time of the natives over other products, and the constant rise in its value so stimulates its production that it is more than probable there will be for some years to come an annual increase in the quantity imported of at least ten per cent.

The following is decidedly the neatest little mathematical puzzle that has come to our notice. It occupied the attention of one of the clubs the other evening until a late hour, and some of the members are said to be puzzled over it yet. A man has 60 apples; he sells 30 for 15 cents, which is half a cent apiece, or 2 apples for one cent. He sells the remaining 30 for 10 cents, which is a third of a cent. Thus we see that for 60 apples he gets two cents; now how many cents did he get for 60 apples? The problem seems plain enough, and by the rule of three the immediate result is 2?. But on the other hand, if he gets 15 cents for 30 of his apples, and 10 for the remaining 30, it seems evident that he gets 52 for the 60. It is said that it is a poor rule that won't work both ways, but this one seems utterly to refuse it.

"Truly, there is no enemy more dangerous than drunkenness, and no slavery more terrible than that of a drunkard. At one time it encounters a man under the form of habit, custom, friendship, at another, under the deceitful garb of pleasure! But when it is completely fastened on its victim, to what a moral degradation is he reduced! He will readily barter his own liberty, his honor, his character, his peace, and the very existance of his family—for what? For mere brute gratification! for senseless, stupid indulgence."

Two Dollars a year, in advance.

Massillon, Wednesday, January 18.

The annual report of the secretary of state for Ohio for 1870, embraces a vast amount of statistical information. What will most interest our readers are some of the details concerning this (Stark) county. In what the report denominates the upland country wherein this county is embraced, the advance of wealth is indicated for Stark by the following figures: In 1850 the total valuation was $9,413,008; 1860, $15,793,194; 1870, $21,971,600. Productions for 1869: wheat, 723,521b; rye 9,443b; buckwheat 2,158b; oats 712,679b; barley 172,314b; corn 758,411b; 19,852 tons hay; 24,006 tons clover; clover seed 3,653b; flaxseed 9,089b; 525,900 lbs flax fiber; potatoes 168,685b; 789,014 lbs butter; 29,675 lbs cheese, 4,360 gallons sorghum; 34,367 lbs maple sugar; 4,664 gallons maple syrup; 13,073 lbs grapes; sweet potatoes 1,918b; apples 49,146b; peaches 9,294b; pears 4,465b; 52,102 acres uncultivated land; 309,905 lbs wool; 2,640 dogs; killed 110 sheep, 891,703 horses; 25,717 cattle; 196 mules; hogs 24,266; 458 marriages; 1295 births; 374 deaths.

In the state 26 indictments have been found for murder in the first degree, of which 3 criminals were executed, and the remainder otherwise disposed of. Amount of cost on criminal docket $110:488.

In Stark county there were 708 buildings of various kinds erected at an aggregate cost of 284,200 dollars. Value of county buildings 189,000 dollars. Bank capital of Stark 530,000d.

The population of this county for 1850—60 is as follows:

Are all these figures correct? If they are it makes a rather bad show for a number of the townships, as their population has decreased, yet the aggregate increase is nearly 16,000. Perhaps these discrepancies are not real, if not they ought to be explained.

BUSINESS IN MASSILLON.

Last week we gave a brief account of what is going on here among our manufacturers—rather in part of them—and others serving the public in various ways. It was impossible to enumerate them all, so it may not be out of place to specify others then omitted.

In the manufacture of saddlery and harness making Yost & Bro. and Mr. Jackson are carrying on an active business and from outward indications are prospering.

Mr. A. Harsh deals largely in umbrellas and parasols; also, in stationery. As he is a live business man his trade is a success.

Mr. Bunnell, an experienced and well known boat builder, has a new vessel on the stocks, and will have it ready for use, probably some time after navigation opens.

Mr. Sladden, who has for years been engaged in manufacturing vinegar, continues to turn out the products of his establishment, and appears to be doing well.

Dickey & Co., and D. & D. R. Atwater, long established firms in commission business—the latter largely engaged in buying and selling grain and other farm products—seem to be doing a prosperous trade. The Atwaters send away large supplies of grain.

Messrs. Beatty & Atwater have had a good season in purchasing and slaughtering pork, a large quantity of which passed through their hands.

The Massillon Mills, Sippo Mills, and Union Mills are all busy in buying grain and transforming it into the necessaries of life. They have been making a good supply of flour both for home and foreign use.

Messrs. Shauf, the firm who manufacture and deal extensively in candies and other sweetmeats, continue to send out large quantities of these materials. They are making it pay.

Next to the millers come the bakers if no middle man between them—and here there are three bakeries, and several thousand people to do the eating.

So this class of manufacturers must be doing well.

Many more avocations might be designated, and some of them may be hereafter, but for the present we rest, as the lawyers say, persuaded that this effort at blowing in behalf of our business interests will suffice for a season.

In the matter of teaching we can safely say that, so far as Massillon is concerned the schoolmasters too are among us. Besides the free schools, where expenses are defrayed by the public treasury, there are several other places at which hundreds of youth are acquiring knowledge. The Catholics have two schools of this class, and one or more of the German churches are also thus favored. So that in the material prosperity of the place, intellectual advancement is not overlooked.

In the line of professional men we have a fair proportion. Three practicing lawyers give their time toward aiding people in their legal troubles A pretty fair force of physicians are with us, consisting of the usual classes—regulars, and according to some standards, irregular and defective—who minister to the people's health. In the clerical profession quite a number of preachers attend to the religious wants of the several congregations, warning sinners to flee from the wrath to come, and encourage saints in the straight and narrow way.

But we must stop again, for this list is quite long enough, considering its breadth. As the people desire some data of their material prosperity we shall have to depend upon the board of trade to furnish the figures.

The political history of our country warrants the assertion that if a man excels in one thing he is considered competent to fill any high, responsible position. While a portion of such experiments as making presidents, governors, &c, out of successful generals, have proved correct, there are a great many exceptions. The latest freak in that line is the idea of nominating Horace Greeley for vice president, and for no other reason than that he is unrivaled as an influential editor, and is a forcible writer. Having these distinctive qualities is no reason why he should be nominated for such a place, because the position requires an entirely different class of qualifications than those necessary for the position of an editor. To administer the rules of order and perform all other duties pertaining to the office of vice president will require a very different class of mental powers than those which distinguish a man who sits quietly in his sanctum, inditing editorials, or even writing books. Mr. G., it seems to us will put his veto on any such movement as the attempt to make him vice president.

Notwithstanding the conservative character of the English people they appear to be unable to arrest the progress of the woman's rights movement. Not long since elections were held in a certain portion of the kingdom when the time arrived for choosing school officers. Several women were elected by triumphant majorities. And there seems to be no protest against the movement, trying to make it unlawful, so that these ladies who are reported well qualified for such places will assume the duties incumbent on them. This is one of the unmistakable indications of the progress of advancement.

Saturday's papers give us some account of the terrible condition of things at the seat of war, at least so far as France is concerned. The principal division of the French army is reported as having been badly beaten by the Prussian forces, a large number of persons being killed, many prisoners taken, and much war material seized. The besiegers are firing shells into Paris, and several points in the city were burned. It is distressing to the humanitarian to read the fearful details of this sanguinary conflict, especially as it involves an untold amount of human suffering. Wisdom and humanity, it would seem, should long since have put an end to this scourge by, a surrender of the French so the manifest destiny awaiting them. The Prussians are already fixing the conditions on which peace shall be based.

The St. Domingo question in congress has progressed so far as to appoint a commission of three gentlemen to go and examine the island, and if possible ascertain the actual condition in which it is now placed. The commissioners are Dr. Samuel G. Howe, of Boston, Prof. White, and B. F. Wade. These gentlemen are all referred to as well qualified for the responsible position this appointment involves. The president appointed bishop Simpson of the M. E. church, as one of the number, but he declined serving; he then chose Mr. Howe, and the commission was confirmed.

It seems that those persecuting temperance people of Mansfield are continuing their legal warfare against the grogselling sinners, making their road a hard one to travel. When they want a customer now they have to obtain a written permission from some wife or mother, giving assurance that they will not be prosecuted for selling liquor to the persons indicated. One sufferer was fined $400 recently. The liquor sellers there are represented as looking very doleful. Even in the democratic county of Butler some of the craft are realizing the practical effects of legal suasion.

Hon. John Covode, for many years a member of Congress from Pennsylvania, and one of the most prominent Republican politicians in the State died at Harrisburgh, on Wednesday morning last of heart disease.

That the government of Great Britain anticipates a war trouble ulterior to that of the Franco-Prussian struggle, and it may be of almost immediate inception, is indicated very clearly by the contents of the telegram from London which appears in our cable report. The Lords of the Admirality are making unusual and extraordinary efforts to place the entire naval force of the united kingdom on a sea going footing. Her majesty's ministers have ordered that all the war vessels now on the stocks, either new or for purposes of repair, shall be pressed to completion and finished without delay. This work will involve a very enormous expense. Parliament is not in session; the extra charges over the amount of the admirality estimate now approved will be incurred without legislative authorization, so that it is quite apparent that the public servants—men so cautious as Premier Gladstone and Earl Granville particularly—must be in possession of facts which they know will justify their action before the assembled lawgivers when they do meet.

That our readers may be enabled to understand the magnitude of this British naval work we present to them a compelte list of twenty seven vessels of war which are just now in the process of construction for the queen's service. They range in classification from a gunboat to the most powerful iron-clads, turret ships and armored rams. Some of them are being built by private firms outside the dockyards; but as this part of the work has also been ordered by the government it is to be presumed that all the new vessels are included in the word dockyards, as reported in the telegram.

When this new deet is turned out what is England going to do with it? Where will its services be required—at home or abroad? Questions such as these are not solved readily at a distance. Perhaps England antic pates a rapidly approaching opportunity for an attempt at renewing her ocean dominion lease for "the flag which braved a thousand years the battle and the breeze."—Herald.

We have information from our special correspondent at Versailles up to the 11th inst., and from that we learn that Gen. Trochu has made another sortie and has been again repulsed. This time he selected the north side for the attempt, and on the 10th sallied forth from St. Denis, only to meet defeat. On the following day another attempt was made by the besieged army, but it met a similar fate to that of the day previous. This sortie was made on the south side, from a point between Forts Vanvres and Montrouge. This would also appear to have been of no very considerable strength, and possibly may prove to be only a feeler thrown out by General Trochu to ascertain the strength of the Germans in the directions indicated. If such should prove the case, we think it rather late in the progress of the siege to begin this kind of work. Trochu must do something quickly or he may not have it in his power even to make the attempt. The bombardment of the city continues. On the 11th twenty-one batteries were pouring forth their storm of shot and shell on the beseiged capital, new batteries are being prepared, and all along the lines the dreadful preparations for dealing death and destruction to the doomed city were hurried on to consumate the work just begun.—Herald.

AN AFFLICTED CITY.

At the opening of this new year, the Richmond Dispatch says, it is not without mournful interest to look back at the great disasters that have befallen Richmond since it became a city. In 1811 the theatre on Broad street, where the Monumental Church now stands, was destroyed by fire, and seventy-two persons, including the Governor of Virginia, were burnt to death. During the war, besides the usual suffering in a besieged city, the ammunition factory on Brown's Island exploded in 1863 killing thirty-three young girls and six males, including Rev. J. H. Woodstock, engaged there. In 1865, at the evacuation, nearly the entire business portion of the city was destroyed by fire. In 1868, at a political celebration on Mayo's Island, the bridge broke down, killing Col. James R. Branch, one of our first citizens, and four other persons. The year 1869 was thick with disasters. In April the flooring of the court room at the capitol gave way, killing fifty-seven and wounding over one hundred persons. A few months afterward a large portion of the city was submerged by a flood, causing great destruction of property; and on Christmas morning, the Spottswood Hotel, with a block of buildings were destroyed by fire, and eight human beings burned to death, besides four that were never heard from, and are supposed to have shared the same fate.

DR. WHITTLESEY, ESQ.

Dear Sir —Having stated it verbally to you, I have no hesitation in writing the fact, although not disposed in favor or to recommend patent medicines in general.

I do this more readily in regard to the sick headache cure prepared by Dr. Whittlesey, of Norwalk, Ohio I have analyzed and tried it, and I recommend it as one o the best dyspepsia cures ever invented, and I feel that in recommending Whittlesey's cure I am doing at act of justice to the compounder of it, and an act of benevolence to those afflicted with dyspepsia and sick head ache for which it is recommended.

Yours Respectfully,

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral,
For Diseases of the Throat and Lungs, such as Coughs, Colds, Whooping Cough, Bronchitis, Asthma, and Consumption.

Probably never before in the whole history of medicine, has anything won so widely and so deeply upon the confidence of mankind, as this excellent remedy for pulmonary complaints. Through a long series of years, and among most of the races of men it has risen higher and higher in their estimation, as it has become better known. Its uniform character and power to cure the various affections of the lungs and throat, have made it known as a reliable protector against them. While adapted to milder forms of disease and to young children, it is at the same time the most onectual remedy that can be given for incipient consumption, and the dangerous affections of the throat and lungs. As a provision against sudden attacks of Croup, it should be kept on hand in every family, and indeed as all are sometimes subject to colds and coughs, all should be provided with this antidote for them.

Although settled Consumption is thought incurable, still great numbers of cases where the disease seemed settled, have been completely cured, and the patient restored to sound health by the Cherry Pectoral. So complete is its mastery over the disorders of the Lungs and Throat, that the most obstinate of them yield to it. When nothing else could reach them, under the Cherry Pectoral they subside and disappear.

Singers and Public Speakers find great protection from it.

Asthma is always relieved and often wholly cured by it.

Bronchitis is generally cured by taking the Cherry Pectoral in small and frequent doses.

So generally are its virtues known that we need not publish the certificates of them here; or do more than assure the public that its qualities are fully maintained.

Ayer's Ague Cure,

For Fever and Ague, Intermittent Fever, Chill Fever, Remittent Fever, Dumb Ague, Periodical or Bilious Fever, &c., and indeed all the affections which arise from malarious, marsh, or miasmatic poisons.

As its name implies, it does Cure, and does not fail. Containing neither Arsenic, Quinine, Bismuth, Zinc, nor any other mineral or poisonous substance whatever, it in nowise injures any patient. The number and importance of its cures in the ague districts, are literally beyond account, and we believe without a parallel in the history of Ague medicine. Our pride is gratified by the unanimous testimonials we receive of the radical cures effected in obstinate cases, and where other remedies had wholly failed.

Unacclimated persons, either residents in, or traveling through miasmatic localities, will be protected by taking the AGUE CURE daily.

For Liver Complaints, arising from torpidity of the Liver, it is an excellent remedy, stimulating the Liver into healthy action.

For Bilious Disorders and Liver Complaints, it is an excellent remedy, producing many truly remarkable cures, where other medicines had failed.

LOCAL MATTERS.

During the last several weeks our city council has not been doing much, part of time having no meetings; business will soon be resumed by the body. The Canton sanhedrim has also been taking a recess.

Mr. Reeves, who lost a valuable buffalo robe has been so fortunate as to again have it in his possession. So much for advertising.

The Canton papers announce that their manufacturing establishments are all now in active operation. This is a good sign of the times. The Ball establishment for awhile inactive is now in full blast. Prosperity attend them.

Mr. Demuth has disposed of his interest in the drug store now in the Opera House to a Mr. Good. Mr. Baltzly continues his interest in the establishment, which will be removed into Mr. Kiester's on the first of April next. Mr. Demuth contemplates going into the manufacture of cigars.

The January thaw has loosend some of the water plugs about town, which had become ice-bound during the cold weather.

Work is progressing on the calaboose, which will soon be ready to entertain guests.

On the 12th, 13th and 14th inst. the mercury here stood at 61, 60, 62. A great difference between this condition of the air and that indicated two or three weeks since, when the mercury was from 6 to 8 degrees below zero.

Mr. Ed Williams who for long years has been the active and successful foreman in Yost & Bro's saddlery establishment, has started a shop of his own at Fulton. He will go ahead, for he is industrious, energetic and a good mechanic.

The G. A. R. post of this place is making ample preparations for the coming convention to be held here on Tuesday and Wednesday of next week, the 25th and 26th. We hope the boys will have a good time, a pleasant reunion, and greet each other in the bonds of friendship—talk over their experience, and enjoy again the pleasant part of their soldier experience. The presence of visitors, weather permitting, will for the time, add to the life of the town—and they will find Massillon a live town, one that some of them may be induced to revisit.

A large and increasing quantity of unbolted flour is sold by our millers, as they tell us that people are using more and more of it every year. All acknowledge it to be the best article of food as compared with the fine flour.

The temperance question is kept wide awake at Salem, for in addition to several temperance organizations they have public meetings every Sunday, addressed in turn by ministers, of the different churches. A consequence is, they get more grogsellers than grog-drinkers in their calaboose, sometimes; very sensible use to make of it.

The January thaw of last week made short work of the sleighing, took off about all the snow, and produced an abundance of mud. Farmers apprehend that the disappearance of snow will be hard on the grain should freezing follow—and it did come on Sunday night.

Our new calaboose will have four parlors, without carpets or looking glasses, in which to accommodate several grogsellers and grog drinkers, all at once. The windows in them will not have those large panes of glass we see in front of stores and business places. Even their bedsteads will be of iron, so there is a poor chance for inmates to burn up all their furniture. Boring through the walls will be found a slow operation with a barlow knife.

The Secretary of state for Ohio, as did also S. C. Bowman, Esq., favor us with his report of the finances of state, and a vast summary of statistical matter. Part of the report gives the population of every town, township, county, and city in the state, but there is this remarkable difference between it and previous censuses—it counts us all together—no columns of figures for white folks and another for black ones. Won't the democracy denounce it as an amalgamation document?

Laura V. Ellis is here, accompanied by her father, and on yesterday evening gave one of those marvelous exhibitions to not a very large audience, in Madison Hall, which has excited the wonder of thousands in other parts of the country. These manifestations have often been exposed, as is alleged, but from what was seen last evening it would appear as if they will stand at least one more expose. All are invited to a similar exhibition at the same place this evening.

The California Minstrel show (burnt cork) here on Monday night is said to have been liberally patronized, at least so far as numbers was concerned. Preparations were making to go on again last evening, but from some cause of which the public is not aware, the company concluded not to go on. An impression is out that the institution is dead broke. If burnt cork wont take here what will?

The selection of the United States Senator for Missouri, which has ended in the choice of Frank Blair Jr. was attended by scenes of drunkenness that disgraced the age. The St. Louis Democrat says:

Old citizens who have visited Jefferson City for years past say that they have never before witnessed anything like the bacchanalian scenes that are being enacted. Some of the details related are of a nature absolutely not fit for publication. This state of things for the honor of the State is to be deeply regretted, and we are glad to know that but few of the Republican members have anything to do with proceedings so disgraceful.

The communication of a citizen was not recieved until yesterday evening, which was too late for insertion this week.

The colored people of this state are holding a convention at Columbus today the object of which is to consider their political position, and decide upon the best course for them to pursue hereafter in order to secure equal advantages under the state constitution.

RENAL AFFECTIONS.

The frequency of Kidney affections and the many complaints arising from disease of the Urinary Organs, give occasion for much study and investigation of those difficulties. The old and the young, the high and the low, are all more or less subject to these troublesome affections; from the diabetes of infants to the gout and gravel of old age, the much exposed laborer at his toil, to the luxurious liver at his ease.

From the very nature of our particular system of practice, we have perhaps had more experience in the treatment of these affections than usually fall to the lot of any practitioner in the same time. And it is in these affection more than any other that an examination of the urine is required, in order to understand the nature of the disease. All urinary difficulties do not arise from gravel, nor do all gravelly indications arise from the affection of the Kidneys, and it is by an examination of the urine alone that these facts are verified many times.

And it is by the precise distinction between the many ills belonging to these organs, which we are able to make by this examination, that we are so successful in their cure.

The terrible sufferings, the writhing agonies, the painful difficulties, and the wretched sleeplessness occasioned by affections of the Kidneys and Urinary Organs, make it a matter of study to the humane physician worthy of the noble cause he has espoused

And he who would not put forth his utmost power to relieve these terrible annoying diseases, whereby so many quietly suffer in agony because of their delicacy, is not worthy to be trusted in the profession.

Many delicate women have lived a life of suffering from some of these diseases, who might have had years of health had their complaint been understood by their physician.

We believe that we treat more patients laboring under these difficulties than any other physician in the state of Pennsylvania, west of the Alleghany mountaina, and we do not hesitate to say that we have cured a greater per centage, by one fourth, than has been done by any others.

Send us a vial of morning urine by express with name, age, and P. O. address of the patient, and we can send the necessary medicines.

DOCTOR OLIN,

THE longest engaged and most successful physician in Chicago, in the treatment of venereal, sexual, and all private diseases, urinary diseases, Syphilitic or Mercurial affections of the Throat, Skin, or bones are treated with unparalleled success.

Spurmetorrhea, Sexual Debility and Impotency, as the result of self-abuse in youth, excesses in maturer years, or other causes, and producing some of the following effects viz. Nocturnal emission, blotches on the face, dizziness, dimness of sight, confusion of ideas, evil forebodings, aversion to society of females, loss of memory, and sexual power, rendering marriage improper and life miserable, are permanently cured. The Doctor's opportunities in hospital and private practice are unsurpassed in Chicago or any other city. Office, parlors, laboratory, and appointments are unrivaled in the west and unsurprssed anywhere.

Age, with experience, can be relied upon and the doctor can refer to many physicians throughout the country. In past success and present position he stands without a competitor. The writings of a physician whose reputation is union wide should be worth reading.

Doctor Olin publishes a Medical Pamphlet relating to Venereal Diseases, and the disastrous and varied consequences of Self Abuse, that will be sent to any address in plain sealed envelope for two stamps, private circular to Ladies one stamp. Many physicians introduce patients to the Doctor after reading his medical pamphlet. Communications confidential. Consultations by letter or at the office, free.

TO PHYSICIANS.

NEW YORK, August 15th, 1868.

Allow to call attention to my Preparation of Compound Extract Buchu. The component parts are Buchu, Long Leaf, Cubebs, Juniper Berries.

Mode of Preparation.—Buchu, in vacuo. Juniper berries, by distillation to form a fine gin. Cubebs extracted by displacement with spirits obtained from Juniper Berries, very little sugar is used and a small proportion of spirit. It is more palatable than any now in use.

Buchu as prepared by druggists, is of a dark color. It is a plant that emits its fragrance; the action of a flame destroys this (its active principle), leaving a dark and glutinous decoction. Mine is the color of ingredie'a. The buchu in my preparation pred ihats; smallest quantity of the other ingredients are added, to prevent fermentation; upon inspection it will be found not to be a tincture, as made in pharmacopœa, nor is it a syrup—and therefore can be used in cases where fever or inflamation exists. In this, you have a knowledge of the ingredients and the mode of preparation.

Hoping that you will favor it with a trial, and that upon inspection it will meet with your approbation,

With a feeling of profound confidence,
I am, very respectfully,
H. T. HELMBOLD,
Chemist and druggist of 19 years experience.

(From the largest Manufacturing Chemists in the world.)

November 4, 1854.

"I am acquainted with Mr. H. T. Helmbold; he occupied the Drug Store opposite my res and was successful in conducting the business where others had not been equally as before him. I have been favorably impressed with his character and enterprise.

HELMBOLD'S
FLUID EXTRACT
BUCHU.

For weakness arising from indiscretion. The exhausted powers of nature which are accompanied by so many alarming symptoms among which will be found indisposition to exertion, loss of memory, wakefulness, terror of disease, or forebodings of evil in fact, universal lassitude, prostration, and inability to enter into the enjoyment of society.

THE CONSTITUTION

once affected with organic weakness, requires the aid of medicine to strengthen and invigorate the system, which Helmbold's Extract Buchu invariably does. If no treatment is submitted to, consumption or insanity ensues in affections peculiar to females, is unequaled by any other preparation, as in chlorosis, or retention, painful, or suppression of customary evacuations, ulcerated or Schirrus state of the uterus, and all complaints incidental to the sex, or the decline or change of life.

Helmbold's Fluid Extract Buchu

AND

will radically exterminate from the system diseases arising from habits of dissipation, at little expense, little or no change in diet, no inconvenience or exposure; completely superceding those unpleasant and dangerous remedies copaiva and mercury, in all these diseases.

USE

Helmbold's Fluid Extract Buchu

In all diseases of these organs, whether existing in male or female, from whate cause originating, and no matter how long standing. It is pleasant in taste and odor, immediate in action, and more strengthening than any of the preparations of bark or iron

Those suffering from broken down or delicate constitutions, procure the remedy at once.

The reader must be aware that, however slight may be the attack of the above diseases, it ss certain to effect the bodily health and mental powers.

All the above diseases require the aid of a Diuretic. Helmbold's Extract Buchu is the great Diuretic.

Sold by druggists everywhere. Price $1,25 per bottle, or 6 bottles for $6,50. Delivered to any address. Describe symptoms in all communications. Address,

Hoofland's German Bitters,

Alcoholic without Alcoholic Spirits of any kind.

Is different from all others. It is composed of the pure juices or vital principle of roots herbs, and barks, (or as medicinally termed extracts), the worthless or inert portions of the ingredients not being used. Therefore, in one bottle of this bitters there is contained as much medicinal virtue as will be found in several gallons of ordinary mixtures. The roots &c, used in this bitters are grown in Germany, their vital principles extracted in that country by a scientific chemist and forwarded to the manufactory in this city, where they are compounded and bottled Containing no spirituous ingredients, this bitters is free from the objections urged against all others, no desire for stimulants can be induced from their use. They cannot make drunkards, and cannot under any circumstances, have any but a beneficial effect.

Hoofland's German Tonic

Was compounded for those not inclined to extreme bitters, and is intended for use in cases where some alcoholic stimulant is required in connection with the tonic properties of the bitters. Each bottle of the tonic contains one bottle of the bitters, combined with pure Santa Cruz Rum, and flavored in such a manner that the extreme bitterness of the bitters is overcome, forming a preparation highly agreeable and pleasant to the palate, and containing the medicinal virtues of the bitters. The price of the tonic is $1,50 per bottle, which many persons think too high. They must take into consideration that the stimulant used is guaranteed to be of a pure quality. A poor article could be furnished at a cheaper price, but is it not better to pay a little more and have a good article? A medicinal preparation should contain only the best ingredients, and they who expect to obtain a cheap compound will most certainly be cheated.

Hoofland's Rodophyllin Pill

The active principle of the most valuable vegetable Cathartics known.

For Liver Complaint, Dyspepsia, Nervous Debility, Jaundice, Disease of the Kidneys, Eruptions of the Skin, and all diseases arising from a disordered Liver, or Stomach, or Impurity of the Blood.

Read the following symptoms:

Constipation, flatulence, inward piles, fullness of blood to the head, acidity of the stomach, nausea, heartburn, disgust for food, fullness or weight in the stomach, sour eructations, sinking or fluttering at the pit of the stomach, swimming of the head, hurried or difficult breathing, fluttering at the heart, choking or suffocating sensations when in a lying posture, dimness of vision, dots or webs before the sight, dull pain in the head, deficiency of perspiration, yellowness of the skin, and eyes, pain in the side, back, chest, limbs, &c, sudden flashes of heat, burning in the flesh, constant imaginings of evil, and great depression of spirits. All these indicate disease of the liver or digestive organs, combined with impure blood.

The use of the bitters or tonic will soon cause the above symptoms to disappear, and the patient will become well and healthy.

Dr. Hoofland's Greek Oil,

LIGHTNING CURE FOR ALL KINDS OF PAINS AND ACHES.

APPLIED INTERNALLY.—It will cure kidney complaints, backaches, sick headaches, colic, dysentery, diarrhea, cholera Infantum, cholera morbus, cramps and pains in the stomach, fever and ague, colds, coughs Asthma, &c.,

APPLIED EXTERNALLY—It will cure all kinds of pains and aches, such as rheumatism, neuralgia, toothache, chilblains, sprains bruises, frost bites, headaches, pains in the back and loins, pains in the joints or limbs, stings of insects, ringworms, &c.

Dr Hoofland's Podophyllin

Substitute for Mercury Pill.

TWO PILLS A DOSE.

The most powerful, yet innocent vegetable cathartic known.

It is not necessary to take a handful of these pills to produce the desired effect, two of them act quickly and powerfully, cleansing the liver, stomach and bowels of all impurities. The principal ingredient is Podophyllin, or the alcoholic extract of mandrake which is by many times more powerful, acting, and searching, than the mandrake itself. Its peculiar action is upon the liver, cleaning it speedily from all obstructions, with all the power of mercury, yet free from the injurious results attached to the use of that mineral.

For all diseases in which the use of a cathartic is indicated, these pills will give entire satisfaction in every case. They never fail.

In cases of liver complaint, dyspepsia, and extreme costiveness, Dr Hoofland's German Bitters or tonic should be used in connection with the pills. The tonic effects of the bitters or tonic builds up the system. The bitters or tonic purifies the blood, strengthens the nerves, regulates the liver and gives strength, energy, and vigor.

Keep your bowels active with the pills, and tone up the system with bitters or tonic, and no disease can retain its hold, or ever assail you.

These medicines are sold by all druggists and dealers in medicines everywhere.

Recollect that it is Dr. Hoofland's German Remedies, that are so universally used and highly recommended, and do not allow the druggist to induce you to take anything else that he may say is just as good, because he makes a larger profit on it. These remedies will be sent by express to any locality, upon application to the principal office, at the German Medical Store, 631 Arch Street, Pa.

Chas. M. Evans, Prop.

Formerly C. M. Jackson & Co.

These remedies are for sale by druggists, storekeepers, and medicine dealers, everywhere throughout the United States, Canada, So America and the West Indies. 389 1y

Spread the Truth.

Some medical men insist that it is unjustified to advertise a remedy, however valuable it may be. Queer reasoning this. It is like saying that an article which the world needs should be hid in a corner—that benefits and blessings may be less widely diffused—that the means of protecting and restoring health should be a close monopoly, and not accessible to all. The argument is false. It is worse than that, it is inhuman. Suppose Hostetter's stomach bitters—an absolute specific for dyspepsia, biliousness, and nervous debility—had never been known beyond the repertoire of the faculty, what would have been the result? Instead of curing and invigorating millions, the good effects of the preparation would have been confined to a comparative few. There is the highest authority for saying that light should not be hid under a bushel, that whatever is excellent should be placed as freely upon a hill, where all men can take cognizance of it. It is upon this principle, that the bitters has been advertised and continues to be advertised in every newspaper of prominence in the western hemisphere, and that the spontaneous testimonials in its favor have been translated into all written languages. Thousands enjoy perfect health to-day who would be languishing on beds of sickness if the newspapers had not spread the truth with regard to this unequaled invigorant and corrective far and wide. Suppose profit has been reaped from this publicity. Is that any argument against it? If the public health has been protected; if lives have been saved if the feeble have been strengthened and the sick restored, great good has been accomplished; and who so mean as to grudge to exertions thus directed their fair reward?

Many Eminent Men

Have candidly asserted their opinion that there is no remedy equal to Mishler's HERB BITTERS for that class of diseases peculiar to the people of sedentary habits. It is in the preparation of wonderful virtue in all cases of this kind, never having failed in effecting a cure, and it still continues on its triumphant career. For all forms of diseases arising from the impurity of the Blood, or derangement of the digestive organs, including General Debility, Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Sick Headache, Constipation, and similar ailments, it is a certain remedy. Leading physicians, every where prescribe it to their patients, and have given the proprietors of the Bitters many testimonials of their confidence in the efficacy of the preparation as a remedy. Sold, in square bottles only, by all respectable druggists and storekeepers. Price, one dollar per bottle. For January.

COLD, DRY ASHES DANGEROUS.

Cold, dry ashes will ignite and become one solid mass of fire. I find that a very great many old and experienced men are ignorant of the fact that cold, dry ashes will take fire by having hot embers inserted in them.

Now, ignorance on this subject exposes the ignorant to losses by fire. I have no doubt that many houses have been burned by ashes having been put away with fire in them, and no one could imagine how the fire took place. I was sixteen years old before I knew that ashes would take fire and burn over; and I had, perhaps, as good an opportunity to learn it as almost any one. It was but a few days ago I told a friend nearly sixty years old, that cold, dry ashes would take fire and burn. He said he never knew it; one thing, he knew he had a box of ashes once, and they were all on fire. He poured on several pails of water; the ashes flew and made a great smudge. He could not put them out and the box burned up. He never thought how they got on fire; it was a new idea to him. I have tried to make this thing known in the community where I have lived. I find there is great ignorance on the subject, and have been desirous to have information on the subject given in public prints, but have waited in vain. If any one disbelieves that dry ashes will not take fire by inserting embers into them, let them take a nice wooden pail full of ashes and introduce a few hot embers into them, and I think in less than forty eight hours, he will be convinced by the destruction of his pail.—F. W. B., in Journal of the Farm.

SHORT TEMPERANCE SERMONS.

"Every moderate drinker could abandon the intoxicating cup, if he would; every inebriate would if he could."

"In the intoxicating cup, discontent seeks comfort; cowardice for courage; bashfulness for confidence; sadness for joy; and they all find ruin"

"Oh, that men should put an enemy in their mouths to steal away their brains! that we should with joy, pleasure and applause transform ourselves into beasts."

"Those men who would destroy a healthful constitution of body by intemperance and an irregular life do as manifestly kill themselves, as those who hang, or poison, or drown themselves."

"I am deeply convinced that the evils of intemperance can never cease till the virtuous in society shall unite in pronouncing the man who attempts to accumulate wealth by dealing out poison and death to his neighbor, as infamous."

"Some of the domestic evils of drunkenness are houses without windows, gardens without fences, fields without tillage, barns without roofs, children without clothing, principles, morals or manners."

"Who has a stupid intelect, a broken memory, and a blasted wit, and what is worse than all, a blind, benighted conscience, but the intemperate? So impossible is it for man to turn sot, without making himself a blockhead too."

A minister once prayed: "O, Lord, we thank thee for the goodly number here to night, and that thou also art here notwithstanding the inclemency of the weather."

Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy is no patent nostrum humbug gotten up to dupe the ignorant and credulous, nor is it represented as being composed of rare and precious substances brought from the four corners of the earth, carried seven times, across the great desert of Sahara, on the backs of fourteen camels, and brought across the Atlantic ocean on two ships. It is a simple mild, soothing, pleasant remedy—a perfect specific for chronic nasal catarrh, cold in the head, and kindred diseases. The proprietor, R. V. Pierce, M. D., 133 Seneca st, Buffalo, N. Y., offers a reward of $500 for a case of catarrh that he cannot cure. Sold by druigists, or sent by mail for 60 cents.

The Independent,

Massillon, Ohio,

Is now Seven Years Old, and

"Still Lives."

Without boasting of being an organ of immense influence, we may with diffidence claim that the paper is not without usefulness in the right direction, ever contending for ju all the living issues of the day. But its principal business has ever been to subserve the local interests of the community with which it is identified, and so it proposes to continue. Its home record of the ever varying phases of business, of the prosperity of the city, and of the social and moral state of society here, with other matters too numerous to specify, will give those who come after us, and have occasion to examine the files of this paper, a faithful history of the years of its existence.

We solicit the continued patronage of our people in the confidence that we shall render satisfaction—at least as near as we can come at it—and for such as are removing elsewhere we hope to make the INDEPENDENT a very welcome visitor.

Dr. J. LONG.

Eclectic Physician,

Has located himself at Massillon, O., for the treatment of Female & Chronic Diseases.

Office on Main street, four doors east of the American Hotel.

All consultations and examinations of patients made free of charge.

Dr. Long examines and explains your disease without asking any questions. If he understands your case you know it, and cannot be deceived. If he cannot tell your disease, and how you feel without asking questions he does not consider himself competent to treat your case. This is the criterion to go by, and patients should not be satisfied with any other. This is the only direct and positive evidence of my ability as a scientific physician, and by this standard I am willing to be judged

A proper diagnosis of local disease, without constitutional symptoms, that is, not affecting the system generally, must depend upon the judgement of both patient and physician.

Give Dr Long a call, and satisfy yourselves whether he understands your cases sufficiently well to treat them successfully.

Dr. Long may be consulted in the German and English languages. Address letters,

A LECTURE TO YOUNG MEN.

Just Published in a Sealed Envelope, Price six cents. A Lecture on the Nature, Treatment and Radical Cure of of Spermatorrhœa, or Seminal weakness, involuntary seminal losses, impotency, mental and physical incapacity, impediments to marriage, etc; also, consumption, epilepsy, and fits, induced by self indulgence or sexual extravagance.

The celebrated author, in this admirable essay, clearly demonstrates from a thirty years' successful practice that the alarming consequences of self abuse may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicine or the application of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain, and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

This lecture should be in the hands of every youth and every man in the land.

Continues to treat all private diseases, syphilis in all its forms, gonorrhœa, gleet, stricture, orchitis, and all urinary diseases, and the effects of mercury are completely eradicated, spermatorrhea or seminal weakness and impotency, resulting from self abuse or other causes, and which produce some of the following effects, as blotches, bodily weakness, indigestion, consumption, aversion to society, unmanliness, dread of future events, loss of memory, indolence, nocturnal emissions and finally so prostrating the sexual system as to render marriage unsatisfactory, and therefore imprudent, is not permanently cured

It is self evident that the physician who confines himself exclusively to the study of a certain class of diseases and treats thousands of cases every year must acquire a greater skill in that speciality than one in general practice,

The establishment, comprising ten ample rooms, is central. When it is not convenient to visit the city, the doctor's opinion can be obtained by giving a written statement of the case, and medicines can be sent by mail or express.

The doctor publishes a medical pamphlet of fifty pages that gives a full exposition of venereal and private diseases that can be had free at office or by mail, in sealed envelope, for two stamps. Every sentence contains instruction to the afflicted, and enabling them to determine the precise nature of their complaints.

JOS COLEMAM.

I do not wish to inform you, reader, that Dr Wonderful, or any other man, has discovered a remedy that cures consumption, when the lungs are half consumed, in short, will cure all diseases whether of mind, body, or estate, make men live forever, and leave death to play for want of work, and is designed to make our sublunary sphere a blissful paradise, to which heaven itself shall be but a side show. You have heard enough of that kind of humbuggery. But when I tell you that Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy will cure the worst cases of catarrh in the head, I only assert that which thousands can testify to I will pay $500 reward for a case that I cannot cure A pamphlet giving symptoms and other information sent free to any address This remedy is Sold by Most Druggists in all parts of the World.

Price 50 cents Sent by mail, postpaid, on receipt of sixty cents, or four packages for two dollars Beware of counterfeits and worthless imitations See that my private stamp, which is a positive guarantee of genuineness, is upon the outside wrapper. Remember that this private stamp issued by the U S government expressly for stamping my medicines, has my portrait name and address and the words U S Certificate of Genuineness engraved upon it, and need not be mistaken Don't be swindled by travelers and others representing themselves as Dr Sage, I am the only man now living that has the knowledge and right to manufacture the genuine Dr Sage's Catarrh Remedy, and I never travel to sell this medicine.
